SAINT LOUIS SOCCER AMONG TOP 10 IN 1995 ATTENDANCE

Saint Louis University's men's soccer team was second in the nation in average attendance among NCAA Division I institutions during the 1995 season. The Billikens drew 2,650 fans per game to the St. Louis Soccer Park for their 10-game home schedule last fall.

Bills head coach Joe Clarke enjoys the support. "The size of our crowds and the atmosphere at our matches are a couple of major factors in our program's ability to continue to be among the best in the country," Clarke stated. "The fans play a part in our success, because players enjoy performing for them. Those crowds help us attract talented players who want their skills to be appreciated."

The Billikens were fourth in the nation in average attendance during the 1994 season. Saint Louis averaged 2,015 fans per game for eight home matches.

Virginia led the nation in total attendance as the Cavaliers drew 38,685 for 15 home dates. The top 10 in average attendance follow:
